Motivating The Masses

1.0 Executive Summary

Motivating The Masses will provide top-quality professional development and coaching services. The principal officer of Motivating The Masses believes that most small businesses and entrepreneurs suffer two major challenges. They lack training or development resources and the depth of knowledge needed to focus on their businesses from a true "ownership" perspective. Both lead to lowered expectations, lack of business and personal growth and frequent owner burnout. Motivating The Masses believes that it can improve upon and exploit these weaknesses to gain local market share.

The objectives for Motivating The Masses over the next three years are:

- Achieve sales revenues of approximately $1,555,332 by end of 2011.
- An increase over 2010 by 41%
- Achieve sales revenues of approximately $5,768,673 by year three.
- Achieve and maintain client base consisting of 60% small business/30% entrepreneurial/10% individual corporate clients per year.
- Move into office space by the end of the 2011.

The company will provide its professional development services in the most effective manner and with an ongoing comprehensive quality-control program to provide 100% client satisfaction. The company's principal officer sees each contract as an agreement not between a business and its clients, but between partners who wish to create a close and mutually-beneficial long-term relationship. This will help to provide greater long-term profits through referrals and repeat business.

Motivating The Masses will institute the following key procedures to reach its goals:

- The creation of a unique, upscale, innovative environment that will differentiate Motivating The Masses from other coaching or professional development businesses.
- Focus on increase the number of participants in each private venue doubling client count
- Educating the business community on what business and strategic coaching has to offer.
- The formation of a learning environment that will bring people with diverse interests and backgrounds together in a common forum to overcome challenges both professionally and personally.
- Affordable access to the resources of business coaching and other consulting services.
- Train and develop key individuals to leverage MTM's trainings, coaching programs and platforms
- Hire the Executive Team

Motivating The Masses is a existing limited liability company (LLC) consisting of one principal officer with 15 years of industry experience. Lisa Nichols (principal) has investing significant amounts of her own capital into the company to expansion costs and future growth. Motivating The Masses will partner with the national marketing organizations to provide services.

The company plans to use its existing contacts and customer base to generate both short and long-term coaching contracts. Its long-term profitability will rely on professional contracts obtained through strategic alliances, a comprehensive marketing program and a successful referral program.

The company has focused on professional development, strategic workshops, one-on-one coaching and special project relationships. Motivating The Masses expansion will provide a separate and comprehensive coaching, mastermind session, and online membership services. The company has rigorously examined its financial projections and concluded that they are both conservative in profits and generous in expenditures. This was done deliberately to provide for unforeseeable growth in events. The company's principal believes that cash flow projections are realistic.

1.1 Objectives

Company's objectives for the next three years of operation include:

- The creation of a unique, upscale, innovative environment that will differentiate Motivating The Masses from other coaching or professional development businesses.
- Educating the business community on what business and strategic coaching has to offer.
- The formation of a learning environment that will bring people with diverse interests and backgrounds together in a common forum to overcome challenges, both professionally and personally.
- Affordable access to the resources of business coaching and other development services.

The financial objectives for Motivating The Masses over the next three years are to:

- Achieve sales revenues of approximately $1,555,332 by end of year one.
- Achieve sales revenues of approximately $5,768,573 by year three.
- Achieve a client mix of 60% small business/30% entrepreneurial/10% individual per year.
- Move into small office space by end of first year.
- Hire a team of sales people
- Hire three mastermind coaches
- Hire Marketing department focused on brand and participation.
- Hire Executive leadership team

1.2 Mission

Motivating The Masses offers small business owners, managers and entrepreneurs a reliable, high-quality resource for business coaching and professional and management development on both a local and national scale. Its mission is to help clients develop the strategy, motivation and accountability required to succeed in their business and personal lives. The company sees each contract as an agreement not between a business and its customers, but between partners who wish to create a close and mutually beneficial long-term relationship. This will help to provide greater long-term profits through referrals and repeat business. Motivating The Masses must also be able to maintain financial balance, charging a high value for its services, and delivering an even higher value to its clients.

1.3 Keys to Success

1. Excellence in fulfilling the promise--completely confidential, reliable, trustworthy expertise and information
2. Developing visibility to generate new business leads
3. Leveraging from a single pool of expertise into multiple revenue generation opportunities: retainer coaching, project consulting, workshop facilitation and individual coaching
4. Consistently developing productive and thought-provoking learning experiences to maintain growth and success with each client

Motivating The Masses

5. Our use of state-of-the-art technology
6. Easy access to services
7. Establishing a seasoned advisory team

2.0 Company Summary

Motivating the Masses is doing business as Training and Development Coaching Company, is a seasoned limited liability company consisting of one principle officer with industry experience of 15 years in sales, professional development training and business operations. The company was formed to take advantage of the perceived weakness of existing professional development opportunities, in terms of quality and client satisfaction. Motivating The Masses is owned and operated by Lisa Nichols.

Motivating The Masses is a virtual company with the main office located Carlsbad, CA. The facilities required for workshops will be contracted with professional service firms, community facilities, colleges or universities or contract office facilities.

The company plans to use its existing contacts and the combined customer base of Ms Nichols star status to generate both short and long-term coaching contracts. Its long-term profitability will rely on focusing on professional contracts that will be obtained through strategic alliances, a comprehensive marketing program and a successful referral program. The one of the overriding success factors this year will be the number of participants in each workshop and training.

4.0 Market Analysis Summary

Motivating The Masses focus on small business owners, managers and entrepreneurs who are concerned that their businesses have not grown at the rate they want or need them to, frustrated that they are spending too much time in their businesses and may be burning out and worried that their business will not survive without them. These companies will have revenues of $10 million or less.

Motivating The Masses

MTM's marketing strategy is simple and cost-effective, they get exposure through their live business seminars, which are delivered all over North America. In 2010, they delivered 124 of these seminars which had an estimated audience of 35,000 professionals.

The primary keys to success for MTM are:

- Market exposure - building reputation and mind share
- Market penetration - both breadth and depth
- Client acquisition
- Client retention
- Achieving or surpassing projections through strong performance and fiscal management

The reason this strategy is so effective is because participants who attend these workshops have in essence pre-qualified themselves as someone who is interested in learning about business and is willing to invest time and money to do so. This allows MTM to get right to the point and to aggressively sell its tools and support to participants. At a typical seminar, 19% of the participants will spend at least $347 for some sort of after training education or support.

Advertising

MTM has historically done very little print advertising in industry magazines but has instead spent the money to market directly to its own database of nearly 47,000 professionals. This is a database of past and current clients, as well as any participant who has attended an MTM seminar and filled out an evaluation. The MTM database is sent a quarterly newsletter which features new products and services, success stories, and information on upcoming events.

MTM sends out a monthly press release to industry press contacts and submits business articles to industry magazines when requested. This has gotten MTM a lot of consistent exposure over the years with no cost.

4.1 Market Segmentation

Motivating The Masses will focus on two markets within the United States, the small business segment (businesses with more than one employee/owner), and the entrepreneur segment, which includes home-based and one-person business operations. Although the company can handle larger organizations, the greatest benefit will come to businesses with under $10 million in annual sales. The majority of these companies are comprised of "technicians" who are gifted in the work of their business, but typically do not have the resources to have in-house staff dedicated to strategic planning, professional development and/or coaching. Our goal is to eventually obtain approximately two-thirds of all our business from the small business segment, since this generates the greatest cash flow. Furthermore, this segment has the lowest percentage of variable costs. The small business segment is considered to be the company's cash cow.

4.2 Target Market Segment Strategy

The small business and entrepreneur markets are ideal targets for several reasons:

1. As a small or entrepreneurial business, resources are often limited to core business functions such as production, administration, finance and distribution. Professional development, training, coaching or planning frequently goes unnoticed or even forgotten. As economic pressures increase and competition becomes more intense, these companies are always looking for effective ways to make themselves more prosperous.
2. As a small or entrepreneurial business, the owner is typically an accountable technician which means he or she has everything on the line with regard to their business succeeding or not, and that their area of expertise is in the business they are "in." Frequently, a technician will be attracted to the "work" of the business and neglect the fundamental health of the business, which includes nurturing both themselves and the customer base.

Motivating The Masses

4.3 Service Business Analysis

The United States spends more per capita on education than any other country. Training or professional development in America is a $210+ billion industry.

There are five basic groups that need training as follows:

1. Large Businesses – These are firms with 100 or more employees. This group spends more than $28 billion in training, with the largest portion going to training managers and career personnel.
2. Small Businesses – These are firms with fewer than 100 employees. There are more than 79 million small businesses in the U.S. This group spends more than $20 billion on training each year.
3. Professional Service Firms – This group includes doctors, lawyers, accountants, engineers, consultants, etc. Continuing education requirements move this group to spend training dollars disproportionate to their size, more than $11 billion per year.
4. Individuals – Those who buy training with their own money and on their own time. This group spends more than $2.5 billion on training and they tend to be highly motivated.
5. Government – Those employed in federal, state, and local governments, the military, post office personnel, school teachers and administrators. This group spends more than $23 billion in training funds annually.

4.3.1 Competition and Buying Patterns

The key element in purchase decisions made at Motivating The Masses client level is trust in the professional reputation and reliability of the professional development firm. The professional development industry is pulverized and disorganized, with thousands of smaller consulting organizations and individual consultants for every one of the few dozen well-known companies.

Competitors range from major international name-brand consultants to tens of thousands of individuals. One of MTM challenges will be establishing itself as a complete professional development company, creating "other" experts the client trust outside of Lisa Nichols while creating trust and confidence at the same level on a consistent basis.

When dealing with the small or entrepreneurial business market, cost or price will be one of the greatest obstacles Motivating The Masses will face. It will be up to Motivating The Masses to assist its clients in the discovery of how much it may cost them NOT to pursue professional development and establish Motivating The Masses as the most effective solution to their challenges.

With time, reputation and referrals will allow for a steady stream of new clients as well as regular price increases. This is not a business to build brand as much as it is to build reliability.

The following table is an internal competitive evaluation prepared by management to highlight how the company expects to compare with competitors in a number of key aspects within the next few years. A rating of 5 is excellent, 3 is average, 1 is poor, and 0 is not applicable.

5.0 Strategy and Implementation Summary

Emphasize results

We will differentiate ourselves with results. We will establish our business offering as a clear and viable alternative for our target market, from the scores of unrefined, one-time seminar, consulting, and "feel good motivational" companies.

Build a relationship-oriented business

Build long-term relationships with clients, not single-visit deals. Become their advisor and partner of choice. Make them understand the value of long-term relationships.

Focus on target markets

We need to focus our offerings on small business owners and entrepreneurs who have a passion for their business and have the willingness to work for what they receive. We do not want to compete for the buyers who seek "get rich quick" types of resources. We need to be able to sell to smart, quality-conscious clients.

5.1 Competitive Edge

The most unique benefit that Motivating The Masses offers to clients is the ability to experience ongoing, reinforcement development, versus a typical "one-time" seminar format. Motivating The Masses provides development and support for a year or more. Since each Strategic Workshop client will be immediately qualified for one-on-one coaching, we will manage and monitor the specific progress of each client to ensure appropriate development.

5.2 Marketing Strategy

Motivating The Masses plans to reach their target companies by four methods which have been proven to be effective. They are:

Lead Generation Program or Affiliate Marketing: Motivating The Masses will do a direct mailing with key affiliate partners. In this industry, an average of 10% conversion ratios.

Sample Previews: These are invitation-only workshops that Motivating The Masses will host for referral sources (i.e., accountants, attorneys, financial planners, insurance professionals) as well as owners of businesses in a target market. The previews will be the actual first year program offered to paying clients. The intent is to provide value and proof of the Strategic Workshop process so that clients will be comfortable making referrals. Motivating The Masses will be responsible for the generation of the lists to which these invitations will be sent.

Free Talks/Networking: This is an excellent opportunity for new coaches and new trainers getting launched and get exposure to these are talks given to Chambers of Commerce, trade councils, professional organizations, etc. It has been industry experience that it is most beneficial to have at least two of these talks per month and attend two networking events per month.

Referrals: Referrals contribute are a large part of MTM's business, putting together an effective drip campaign and concentrated effort will leverage this opportunity.

Other Income Generators: Special Project Assistance. This includes writing private programs for specific businesses, designing custom programs and retainer based coaching on an ongoing basis.

Motivating The Masses

5.3 Sales Strategy

Motivating The Masses will make a significant profit through the delivery of top-of-the-line professional development services. The company will see revenue growth and profit by leveraging its strategic marketing partnerships. Creating digital delivery services that have no product cost will maximize profitability.

Each event funnels to the next event, we have mastered this process and know how to build credibility and leverage each interaction and event to maximize the lifetime value of our clients. On average MTM closes 32% of its audiences into another program. MTM has closed as high as 87% on particular events.

Sales Funnel Cycle

Sales Strategy

This is the BIGGEST opportunity for MTM historically all sales have been closed through customer service representatives, and Lisa Nichols at live event. There has never been a sales team focused on outbound marketing and sales generation.

Our strategy is to hire 1 full time sales person immediately, following up on all leads, evaluations and capture strategies. By the 2013-2014 have a full sales team, and management team in place.

Sales Strategy: Strategic Partners

5.3.1 Sales Forecast

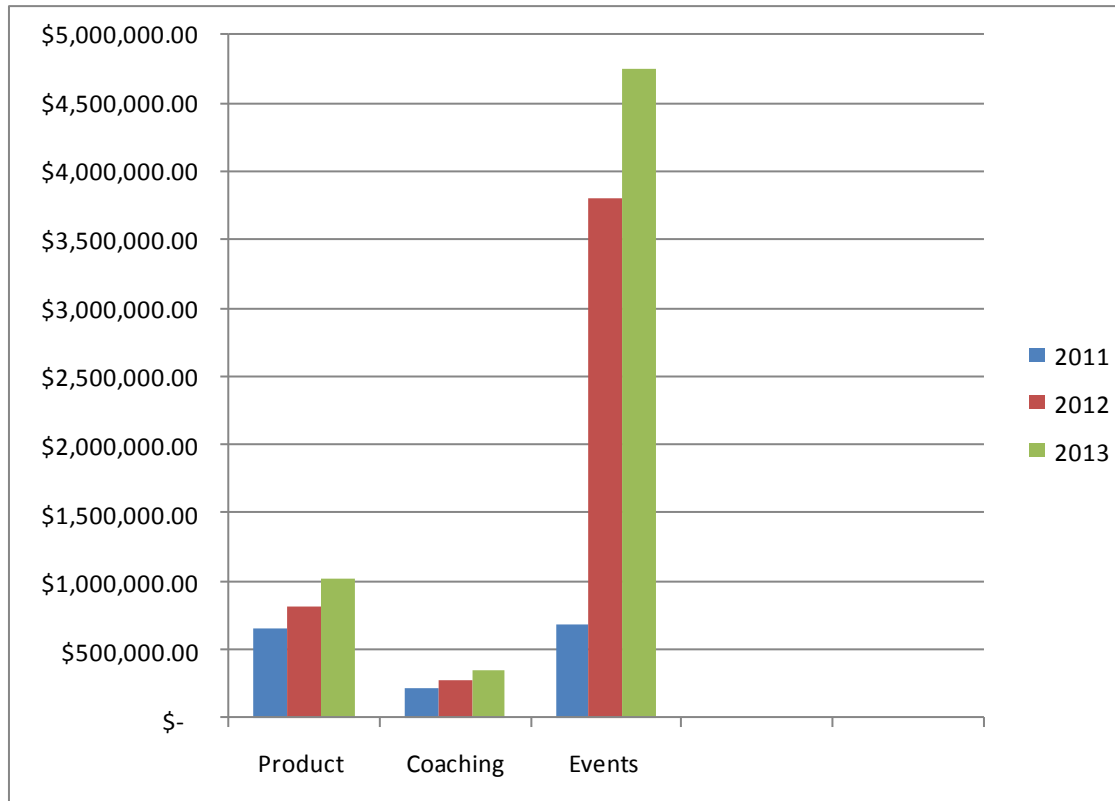

Motivating The Masses expects a slow start to 2011, but a strong finish with referral marketing beginning to replace hard marketing dollars. The last quarter and first quarter are historically slower than the 2nd and 3rd quarters. The core business will be the Strategic Workshops, Consulting and seminar participants. Pricing ranges from 397- $25,000 for high end consulting. With a qualified sales team, and sales leadership we are confident we can hit our revenue goals. 89% of all sales efforts have historically relied on Lisa Nichols removing this responsibility from her will free up more time to create new content and more effective delivery of programs. Consistent efforts made by Motivating The Masses based on the marketing plan will drive enough opportunities to supply both initial and ongoing growth. Potential obstacles to achieving these results:

1. Prospecting/marketing plan not followed
2. Poor delivery of service
3. Any health problems of owner

Motivating The Masses

4. Finding quality professionals
5. Training perspective coaches to meet the growth plan

6.0 Management Summary

MTM is currently understaffed to properly manage current business volume. The Company needs to hire a several people to support the growth and development of the organization. CTO to direct software development, Sales Manager/Team, Marketing Manager to direct marketing message in with first round of funding. The President/COO has been doing both of these things during the startup stage to keep costs down, but MTM cannot accelerate growth under this structure. Management does not believe it will be difficult to find either of these people.

The following table indicates the current and projected employee headcount by type of work they do. Subcontractors are not included in this table.

6.3 Organizational Chart

Motivating The Masses

7.0 Financial Plan

Our financial plan is based on conservative estimates and assumptions. We built the organization with bootstrapping, with the financial investment we can focus on filling classrooms and trainings. Once we have participated in the seats we leverage the audience. The model is taken from one of our colleagues who consistently produces these results.

We can minimize risk factors by:

1. Obtaining initial capitalization of the company to sustain operations through year one
2. Maintaining low overhead through the use of shared office space and home-based office through year one
3. Developing a strong customer base through aggressive marketing
4. Build the marketing funnel and follow up systems
5. Creating strong community ties and involvement
6. Eliminating collection costs, by establishing cash/credit/debit card only facilities

7.1 Projected Profit and Loss

The following table and chart shows the projected Profit and Loss for Motivating the Masses. The majority of our operating expenses are the payroll, benefits and taxes. This includes a standard health plan, since the owner is sole provider of services; if she gets sick, sales stop. The goal is to duplicate Lisa and create a business that no longer relies on her

7.2 Break-even Analysis

7.3 Projected Cash Flow

The following table and chart show the Cash Flow for Coaching Company. After the first six months, cash flow should be positive for all months. We expect an initial period of decreasing cash balance, until sales reach mid-year targets.

7.4 Projected Balance Sheet

The following table presents the Balance Sheet for Motivating the Masses. It shows our projected steady increase in Net Worth over the next three years. As a consulting company, we do not need a great deal in the way of assets, so the largest factor in the Balance Sheet is our cash balance.
